*The UNH Child Study and Development Center
Durham, NH*

- “ Sara is one of the most dedicated and hardest working teachers with whom I have ever had the opportunity to work. ”
- “ It is not rare to see Sara buzzing around the center early in the morning greeting staff, parents and children in the hallways, always with a hug, warm smile on her face...she is infectious, because children light up when she enters the classroom in the morning! ”
- “ In May 2003, Sara graduated with a M.Ed. in Early Childhood and a concentration in Special Education with her NH state teacher certification up to third grade. She strives to create an environment that supports conflict resolution, respect, emotional well being, humanitarian values as well as supporting individuality in a collaborative classroom. ”
- “ What I believe makes Sara such a unique teacher is her soft spoken mannerism, generous heart and endless dedication to children and families at CSDC, while also balancing her own family/personal life outside the center. ”
- “ Sara never seeks recognition for her accomplishments and that is exactly why I believe this acknowledgment is most deserved. ”
